Editor's Letter

I would like to welcome all readers and subscribers to this, our 10th edition of Britain, My Nation and thank you all for your continued support. I would especially like to thank those who have generously donated to allow us to continue producing this relatively new and inexpensive publication, as costs continue to rise. As mentioned in earlier issues, we hope to absorb these extra costs as long as we can to ensure the affordability of the magazine.

I have recently undergone surgery on my left hand (my writing hand!) to rectify Dupuytren's contracture (also known as the Viking finger), which affected my little finger, so am somewhat disabled presently. However, being able to sit around a little more than usual allows me to make some impact on the huge pile of books awaiting reading. Of these I thought it appropriate to read the excellent book 'Trail of the Viking Finger – A Northern Family Saga' written by our now-departed political comrade, John Bean, who was kind enough to sign my copy when I purchased it from him a few years ago now. If this edition of BMN does happen to reach you later than normal it is down to my temporary disability and so I apologise for that. When it does arrive through your letterboxes we will be entering the political party conference season and many of these are scheduled to take place over the next couple of months. One of the first conferences of the season however, is that organised by the Heritage and Destiny magazine, taking place on Sunday 7th September, at which speakers from several Nationalist parties and movements will appear. I am also looking forward to attending for the first time and also hoping to increase our readership and subscriber base, as without doing so, our future is always less than secure, although we do not intend to cease publication quite yet! I look forward to seeing you there.

Sadly we see the last instalment, on page 6, of Steve Smith's article regarding the BNP election success as achieved back in 1994, a mere 30 plus years ago! Steve's final paragraph is one that all young Nationalists should pay heed too, in that, there are no quick fixes. The present day trend of expecting things to happen overnight is not welcome and we must drive home the point that if we are to win then we have to put in the work and have patience. In our current political climate it is most definitely possible to replicate the successes that Steve writes about, and I would like again, to thank him for his permission to reproduce the article.

Despite all that is wrong with Reform UK (see pages 8 and 12) and their false Nationalism taking many, many, good people away from true Nationalist parties, we must hope that, at the least, they do continue to give the mainstream parties a bloody nose. Obviously we would prefer their members to align with a true Nationalist party but Nigel Farage does seem to have the knack of drawing people in and believing him to be the great white hope.

Reader's will know that our intention in publishing Britain, My Nation is to draw together all strands of Nationalism in an attempt to unite us and strengthen our efforts to turn this country around. Recently we have been somewhat dismayed with the leadership of several of the parties, covered in our pages, as they pursue a course of action attempting to discredit other Nationalists (see pages 9-12). This is not helpful to our movement and only serves to strengthen those who are against us if they perceive us to be fighting amongst ourselves.

Britain, My Nation is only be available by post on subscription and not via the internet or by email. Articles, letters, newspaper cuttings, and general comments for consideration for inclusion in future editions are welcomed, but please include your name and address if sending items (items will not be published without senders details, and these will not be published unless advised otherwise). Please send by email to: - britainmynation@yahoo.com

by post to: - The Editor, Britain, My Nation, 10 Washpool, SWINDON, Wiltshire, SN5 3PN

We are planning on publishing Britain, My Nation for some time to come, but we can only do so with support from Nationalists within our community. As said above, we are truly grateful for the support and encouragement we have received to date but there is always more we can do, with donations being particularly helpful and very much appreciated. Please also make sure you mention Britain, My Nation to your friends, family and political comrades and perhaps order a couple of extra copies that you can distribute as samples. Thank you all once more.

In the News – 1

In recent months we have seen a resurgence of PROTESTS AT HOTELS HOUSING ILLEGAL IMMIGRANTS. The most high profile of these was that taking place at the Bell Hotel in Epping, although not for the first time. Several years ago, members of the For Britain party led by Anne-Marie Waters, and including stalwart Nationalists Eddy Butler and Julian Leppert, filmed there in an attempt to draw attention to what was happening. This time, the Homeland Party, several members of which live locally (see photo, left), were instrumental in drawing local people together, due to concerns resulting from the arrest of an immigrant who was charged with sexual assault for allegedly attempting to kiss a 14-year-old girl. Callum

Barker, a leading member of the Homeland Party was subsequently dubbed 'The Lion of Epping' as a result of his sterling work at the site. The protest resulted in the local council voting to close the hotel with the occupants reportedly moved to the nigh-on £500 per night Britannia Hotel in Canary Wharf, London. As a consequence of media coverage of this protest, others began through-out the country at similar establishments. Plans are afoot to increase the frequency of these protests and the venues at which they occur, with a nationwide day of action, reportedly involving protests planned at more than 40 venues taking place on Friday 8th August at 6pm.

To make matters worse, an MOD data breach resulted in the leaking of details of a GOVERNMENT SECRET SCHEME TO RELOCATE UP TO 7,000 AFGHANS IN THE UK. The Daily Mail newspaper reported that this plan had existed for almost two years but was kept secret due to a 'super injunction', which meant that even parliament were unaware of the plans of this secret government scheme codenamed 'Operation Rubific'. Planes have been secretly flying in to Stansted Airport and RAF Brize Norton with passengers being taken by coach to military bases, where they are housed in what were homes for British servicemen or to town centre hotels. This will further exacerbate the problems the British people are facing and will no doubt result in further protests.

Some protests have taken place in Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic, with that in Moygashel, County Tyrone, being the most controversial, as Loyalists constructing bonfires to celebrate the Glorious Twelfth placed an EFFIGY OF ILLEGAL IMMIGRANTS IN A BOAT ON THEIR BONFIRE (see photo, right) and set it alight on the Thursday prior to the weekend of Loyalist parades. The usual suspects were outraged at this act, but should start waking up to the extent of feeling that exists amongst those people that are being replaced by those who do not belong.

Tommy Robinson, who campaigns against Islam, whilst allegedly being financed by Zionists, has announced the "LARGEST CELEBRATION OF FREE SPEECH EUROPE HAS SEEN", which will take place in London on Saturday 13th September, with "huge guests confirmed" as speakers at the event. Robinson was released from his latest spell in prison at the end of May and it remains to be seen if the authorities allow him to remain free for this event. Either way the event is likely to be massive, particularly if Robinson is detained again. STOP PRESS – On 29th July we saw the media carrying the news story that Robinson had allegedly assaulted a man in St Pancras train station in London. Video footage appeared on social media showing Robinson milling around the station as a man lay unconscious on the ground close-by. It was then reported that Robinson had fled the country, but on the basis of the above, it remains to be seen what the truth is regarding this incident. We hope to report further on both stories in our next edition.

In the News - 2

With the increasing anger over the massive number of illegal immigrants arriving here, AN ELITE UNIT OF POLICE DETECTIVES IS TO MONITOR SOCIAL MEDIA ANGER OVER MIGRANTS. The National Internet Intelligence Investigations team will include officers from across England and Wales and be located in London. The aim of the unit is to seek out early signs of potential civil unrest. The move has been called disturbing due to infringements on free-speech. This is yet more evidence of how our police forces would rather spy on concerned individuals than carrying out proper policing and dealing with real crime affecting our people.

In June the press reported on Prime Minister STARMER'S U-TURN ON GROOMING GANG ENQUIRY. After the problem had been ignored for over 20 years, with government after government suggesting there was no problem and even Starmer only in January this year suggesting those calling for an enquiry were jumping on a far-right bandwagon, he has now capitulated and ordered a national enquiry to take place. Starmer had apparently commissioned Dame Louise Casey to write a report to "double check" the issue and as a result of her report felt an enquiry was the right thing to do, being "... a practical, common sense way of doing politics". Whether or not this enquiry will result in the prosecutions and resignations that are long overdue remains to be seen, but whatever the outcome it will further stoke the flames of anger currently present in Britain.

The 7th July saw the 20th ANNIVERSARY OF LONDON BOMBINGS BY ISLAMIST TERRORISTS. On this date a series of four bombings took place across London targeting commuters during the morning rush hour. As a result 56 people were killed (including the 4 terrorists) and 784 were injured. Our gutless King published a message (right) which put another nail in his coffin as the British people see his words of support for "...a society where people of all faiths and backgrounds can live together with mutual respect and understanding". The man is a joke and has no idea what society feels about those who are here with the intention of destroying our culture and history. The Royal Family needs a massive wake-up call!

Presumably King Charles was not made aware of PUPILS REMOVED FROM SCHOOLS FOR WEARING UNION JACK DRESS on a day designated as "Culture Celebration Day". Several pupils were sent home from schools in the West Midlands as a result of wearing what they saw as dress representing English and Welsh culture. Due to the resultant public outrage the schools closed early for the summer break, suggesting it was in the interest of the safety of their students. Those responsible for such actions need sacking for their treacherous actions, being unfit to teach in British schools.

The GOVERNMENT HAS ANNOUNCED THE VOTING AGE WILL BE LOWERED TO 16 across the UK in time for the next general election. This news has been met with both anger and excitement as it is felt to be a cynical move to increase the number of those voting for the Labour Party, although it says new voters will be able to vote for whichever party they choose.

Finally, however, the good news is that EX-LABOUR LEADER, JEREMY CORBYN, HAS ANNOUNCED THE FORMATION OF HIS NEW LEFT-WING POLITICAL PARTY – YOURPARTY. He has been joined in this venture by Zarah Sultana, Shokat Adam, Adnan Hussein, Ayoub Khan and Iqbal Mohammed. It is good news on two levels, the first being that it will split the left-wing vote, but more importantly it is predicted that more disillusioned and angry people will be migrating towards Nationalism. YourParty will be holding its inaugural conference in the near future to "...determine the direction of the party, models for leadership and what the party stands for". Looking at the names of those above it will not be difficult to guess who their target audience will be and the agenda that they will set!

How We Won Millwall by Steve Smith – Part 5 of 5

This is the fifth and final instalment of an article, by Steve Smith, the 1993 Tower Hamlets British National Party Organiser. The article was first published in the, now defunct, Patriot magazine, which ran to 8 issues between spring 1997 and summer 2001. Patriot, edited by Tony Lecomber, was very professionally produced and although sadly short-lived, served partly as a vehicle to promote the successful takeover of the BNP by Nick Griffin in replacing John Tyndall. Steve Smith (now of the British Democrats) has kindly given permission for us to reproduce this article which documents one of the finest hours in the history of the British National Party. Bear in mind these events took place when no internet was available and so the achievements detailed are all the more impressive when considering the extent of physical effort required by activists to get public attention.

We reasoned that our results were improving consistently and that precious time spent on organising and holding meetings could be used on the vital task of canvassing. Thus when we contested Millwall ward for the first time, we operated on a strategy of solid and consistent door-to-door canvassing which brought us into contact with the electorate and helped build a rapport, which over the next year would reap enormous political dividends. Even so, the result itself astonished many of us. We polled 20% of the vote, obtaining 657 votes. Such a result eclipsed even some of the NF's 1970s electoral high points.

Immediately afterwards we distributed a 'Well done' leaflet part of which read: 'Barry's (the candidate) 20% vote was a well-deserved kick in the pants for the old complacent parties. But we'd have done even better if some of you had not lost your bottle or stayed at home.' That kind of real East Ender talk touched a nerve and put real heart into the community. After such a vote we were eagerly awaiting the chance to fight the ward again in the spring elections of 1994. So, the next ten months were spent in the Millwall ward on a regular basis selling the party paper and following up a steady stream of membership enquiries. This was regular, consistent work that would enable us to actually win the seat next time we contested Millwall. We didn't have long to wait as another by-election was called in Millwall ward for 15th September 1993.

A sensible political approach to tactics was used – more of the same tried and trusted intensive canvassing and community politics, coupled with the knowledge and experience we had gained from the previous four years. We won the election and the rest, as they say, is history.

The impetus gained from the Millwall win was massive. It was the talk of the country for weeks and it boosted the Nationalist vote all over the country. When the May 1994 elections came, BNP votes climbed to their highest ever and surpassed the best ever results of the National Front in the 1970s.

In Millwall, Derek increased his vote by nearly 600 and our three candidates averaged 1,843 for 27.7% of the vote. Those votes of 1,713 to 2,041 would normally have seen all three candidates comfortably elected, and they would have been but for the highest turnout in the history of Tower Hamlets (67%) which prevented this.

The 'Millwall effect' increased votes everywhere. In St. Peters we gained 889 votes for 24.2% of the poll; in St. James we grabbed 653 votes for 24.7% of the poll – the highest ever achieved; in Holy Trinity ward our three candidates averaged 755 votes for 25% of the vote, again the highest ever achieved. In neighbouring Newham, we obtained our best result. In Beckton ward our candidates averaged 458 votes for 33% of the vote and came within a whisker of being elected. The last time this seat had been fought was in 1978 when the NF polled 11.4%. In the next door ward of Custom House and Silver Town, our three candidates averaged 723 for 26.5% of the vote – again, the highest ever achieved. The highest National Front vote had been way back in 1974 with 19.3%. It should also be mentioned that over the years none of these wards in either Tower Hamlets or in Newham had been getting any whiter!

The culmination of the strategy employed from October 1992 came with these elections in May 1994. These results were our best ever and surpassed anything that had gone before.

This brief eyewitness account covered the period 1990-94 and could have been much more extensive. However, to really do the period justice would require a small book. But the main point to be made is simple and clear-cut: Nationalists can now dispense with noisy conflict-type demonstrations. Real progress and growth is created by intelligent and consistent political work within a broader strategy of feasible objectives and targets. Intimate contact with the public through canvassing and discussion of real local issues that are important to local people – genuine community-based politics is the only way forward. Take it from me, I slogged my guts out and I saw it unfold. It may be slow, and lacking in glamour but it's the only realistic option and the only one so far to have produced the results!

How Do We Save Our Decaying Country? (Part 10)

In the final article of this series we look at just one policy that, by implementing, will see most of the problems which face us, being dealt with in one swoop. Remigration! We touched on this in part 2 of this series of articles and again in more detail in part 7. However we felt it necessary to yet again re-emphasise the importance of it, believing it to be a key solution to all of our problems, and one that must be implemented, so our problems will go away. So we look at the issue once again, particularly as, with illegal immigrants creating more problems by the day and with no government taking any serious steps to tackle these problems, remigration is the talk of all indigenous populations so affected.

With, it seems, the Homeland Party, grasping this nettle early on and producing a comprehensive policy document on Immigration and Remigration, we make no apology for drawing on this, although perhaps with a stronger emphasis on the fact that those that do not belong must be removed. In the opinion of Britain, My Nation we have absolutely no need for immigrants in this country for any reason. WE MUST LEARN TO MANAGE OUR OWN PEOPLE FOR THE GOOD OF OUR NATION! Any laws or international agreements regarding human rights elements currently presenting a hurdle to dealing with immigrants need to be rescinded allowing us free rein over how these people are dealt with, without fear of repercussions from other nations.

It seems our whole nation is agreed that immigration is out of control but despite repeated promises by government, talks with others and money being spent on efforts to control our borders, nothing actually happens and still they flood in!

The first step we must take is to remove incentives, thereby discouraging migration. Benefits and housing need to stop, with any immigrants arriving subsequently being placed in camps and on rations. Such camps would be as far away as possible from the general population and be guarded to ensure those so interred stayed pending arrangements being made to return them to their home nation or to the country from which they arrived. There would be no right of appeal nor any other rights other than, food, water and temporary and secure accommodation. Those immigrants currently in prisons will be returned to their country of origin. Border security must be beefed up with the Royal Navy, nor the Royal National Lifeboat Institution, being used as taxi's, so effectively taking no part in the immigration process.

The millions of immigrants still housed here and working illegally, would be investigated by the local authority who would be given greater powers to investigate suspect employers and employees, with those found to be operating non-bona fide businesses being closed down and all immigrants found working in the black economy and their families, joining those incarcerated in camps pending their removal.

This would apply to all first generation immigrants, all of those not born here, after which, those who have been here a while but have failed to integrate, be it by virtue of language or lifestyle that is not recognised as being British would also be deemed eligible for removal. This is Britain, if people wish to live an alternative lifestyle in the way that they lived in their country of origin, the question must be asked as to why they are here if they feel our lifestyle is so alien to them.

All institutions, including schools and colleges that have been infiltrated by a majority of immigrants will be reviewed to ensure that they exist under only British values, using our language and those who are unable to accept this would be removed to the camps and could then exist how they wished for the short time prior to removal to their home countries, where they could continue living in the way they so obviously feel they must.

Sadly such seemingly harsh measures are necessary to prevent our nation decaying further as the old adage "import the third world, become the third world" is becoming more and more the norm. Our nation was once a great nation and our people and our achievements were the envy of the world. Too many of our own people feel guilty for this and so must take the blame for the decay we have seen over the past 80 years.

We are at a crossroads and unless something is done we will fall further into the dark hole we find ourselves, but it does seem that a change is afoot. People are waking up and challenging the wrongs we face, despite how hard this sometimes may seem. We can put this right, it just takes for all of us to stand tall and be proud of our heritage and say that enough is enough. It really is not too late, it is close, but true Brits have always found the energy to fight back under the most adverse of conditions. Our time is now and we believe the British Lion is at last stirring from its' slumbers. We need to unite in numbers and challenge those that are working to destroy us, ignoring all of the minor differences that we may have within the many different strands of Nationalism, so that in years to come we can look back on the part that we played to save our nation.

Reform UK Has No Scruples!

Nationalist party's need to be true and honest when standing up for our people and we should not forget those who work against us in supporting the Great Replacement of our own people by mass illegal immigration. Consequently those who facilitate our replacement should be boycotted. Sadly, there are those political parties who purport to be here for our country but have no conscience when utilising businesses that have, for example, housed illegal immigrants in their hotels.

Recently, Reform UK members and supporters in the Chippenham (Wiltshire) Constituency were sent an email advising that the party was "...holding an unforgettable event ...". This 'unforgettable event' was an evening with the Rt. Hon. Ann Widdecombe, ex-Conservative MP and ex-Brexit Party MEP and since 2023 the UK Immigration and Justice spokesperson for Reform UK. Also advertised as speaking at the event was GB News political commentator Charlie Downes along with other special guests. The event took place towards the end of April at the Wiltshire Hotel in Royal Wootton Bassett.

Royal Wootton Bassett, readers will remember, is the town through which convoys of hearses with coffins, adorned with Union Jacks, containing the remains of British servicemen and women who lost their lives in Iraq and Afghanistan, being repatriated via RAF Lyneham, close by but no longer an RAF station.

The Wiltshire Hotel itself forms part of a leisure and retirement village just outside of Royal Wootton Bassett, so nothing too exciting there it seems, but the promised 'lively' Q&A session that followed the speeches should have proven very interesting indeed, particularly if questions were raised regarding what the Wiltshire Hotel had been used for from 2022 to 2024. During that time the 58 rooms in the luxury hotel were being used by the Home Office as emergency short-term accommodation for migrants arriving in the UK via the English Channel. At the time, the retirement village's management, nor the elderly people living there, had been notified of any change of use at the Hotel until workmen arrived to erect a six-foot high security fence barricading the only safe pedestrian pathway linking the houses and apartments of the village to the Hotel and its bars and restaurant, the two golf courses, gymnasium and indoor heated swimming pool. A new gate was also installed which locked out any access for traffic towards the golf courses.

Consequently there was outrage amongst the residents particularly as it was compulsory for them to pay approximately £1,500 each year for the access to these services. The villagers were also subject to threats and harassment by security staff at the site. It is estimated that it cost over £500,000 to book every room in the Hotel and, although now at an end, initially there was no specified end to the contract.

It seems that Reform UK have no conscience regarding the use of this Hotel which less than a year earlier had been used to house illegal immigrants. True Nationalists would not have forgotten and so would not have used such an establishment. We must not support those who participate in our replacement.

Which Nationalist Party? (1 of 4)

Regular readers will know that, here at Britain, My Nation, one of our aims is to encourage the Nationalist community to work together towards our common goal. We see that goal being a return of our nation to that of 60 or so years ago when it was the envy of the world due to the achievements of our indigenous population. Sadly it seems that, with the large number of Nationalist parties and movements that currently exist, certain members, and high profile members, including party leaders at that, seem unable to accept the minor differences that exist between us and so consequently spend an inordinate amount of time bad-mouthing and sniping at others in an attempt to belittle those who they should see as allies. If we are ever to become a force to be reckoned with then this needs to stop. It is like watching silly children bickering in the school playground! If those responsible are unable to refrain from this divisiveness then we may as well give in now. Surely it is a simple thing to ask that such feelings are contained and if there are differences then make contact and discuss matters privately like adults if absolutely, or just accept them. We do not need to do the job our enemies are attempting to do, it makes us look amateurish, out of control and not serious about our objectives. It is often said that it is too late for us to make a difference and that there are too many immigrants here infiltrating our political system, our media, and society in general, so we need to fight the real enemy and not each other. We need to work together so we can stop what is happening and reverse what we see as wrong.

Our regular 4-page article looks at those political parties and groups who should be, and in the main are, working to that end in the hope that, we can form alliances to do the job we need to do.

In the past we have taken a brief look at the main policies of each of the groups below and are now looking at what we consider newsworthy items where we become aware of them. We have also begun weeding out those who contribute zero to our movement and will add new organisations that may potentially help our cause.

We continually wonder if Britain, My Nation will have any impact or influence on the unification of the Nationalist movement. We cannot answer that, but what we can say is that at least we are making that effort – perhaps other Nationalists need to ask themselves whether or not they are doing the same and they are involved in the movement for the right reasons.

Advance UK

This is a new addition to our listings. The Advance UK website asks us to “Help mend a broken Britain” and goes on to say that their mission is to “Build a proud, independent and prosperous United Kingdom”, continuing that “We stand for nation, freedom, democracy and equality under the law”. All this is positive until it is discovered that the party was formed by Pakistani, Ben Habib. Habib was removed from the leadership of Reform UK in July 2024, after criticising Farage and disagreeing with him over immigration, suggesting Farage is too weak, and surprisingly considering Habib’s background, calling for mass deportations! How the party will progress remains to be seen but the website says that “The first 30,000 members to sign up will receive a discounted rate of £10 for their first year of membership”, continuing with a statement saying that when this figure is reached Habib will donate £100,000 to the party and apply to the Electoral Commission for full party status. Progress will be monitored but it is interesting that the party has already been joined by Richard Inman, a top Tommy Robinson supporter, who has abandoned UKIP where he was a member of their NEC.

British Democratic Party

The British Democrats continue steadily as true racial Nationalists and their social media presence suggests they have more support than their physical presence might suggest, with over 76,000 “followers” on social media including 50,000 on Facebook. At the end of June the party took nominations for their NEC resulting in the election of 5 candidates for a 2-year term, one of whom is Britain, My Nation contributor Steve Smith, a well-respected and seasoned Nationalist (see page 6), so congratulations to him.

Britain First

The party continues with its confrontational politics, and at the time of writing, is calling for patriots to join them in Manchester on Saturday 2nd August for the latest in their Marches for Remigration. Previous marches have been impressive with a sea of Union Jacks being carried, so it is hoped that the latest march will follow that same trend. The party has a good social media presence and those signed up receive an average of 1-2 emails daily. Party leader Paul Golding is somewhat abrasive in nature but appears to work hard, it seems, to increase the party profile. Unfortunately Golding is one of those who has criticised other Nationalists and would presumably be less than accommodating to some of those looking to form alliances.

Which Nationalist Party? (2 of 4)

British Freedom Party (see Christian Nationalist Party)

As reported in our last edition the BFP seems to have been replaced by the Christian Nationalist Party so as a consequence this will be the last appearance, in this feature, for the BFP.

British Movement

BM continues to suffer from interference affecting its social media presence although very regular posts appear on their Telegram platform and also on the www.britishmovementnorthern.org site. Along with the on-line Emblem publication returning, indications suggest that the popularity of BM is on the rise.

Christian Nationalist Party (see British Freedom Party)

Although added to our list in the last edition, little progress is apparent by looking at the party website. In fact nothing has been added since their first post, on the 20th April 2025 which announced the formation of the party. There is a presence on X (was Twitter) but posts are somewhat uninspiring unless the reader is a committed Christian, as they do seem to concentrate more on the religious aspect than anything else. Griffin, who is associated with the party, does continue posting his political comment on Telegram independently and has approximately 6,500 followers, but he will never recover the dominant position in Nationalism he once had. It may be that Jayda Fransen, the party leader and the Griffin/Dowson clique has lost its way. It is difficult to see how this party will impact on the Nationalist movement.

English Democrats

The ED's are another party whose website needs updating, indicating they seem to be struggling. X is regularly updated but with a following of less than 6,000 it is difficult to see the party retaining any relevance. This is a shame when there are good people within its ranks, not the least being party leader, Robin Tilbrook. In our last edition we suggested that as a result of an increase in patriotism and on the back of that, British Nationalism, the English Nationalist cause is being overshadowed, worthy though it is. Perhaps now the time is right for the EDs to consider joining forces with another party to ensure that the talent that exists within it is not wasted.

Heritage Party

Another party that seems to be muddling along and making little impact is the Heritage Party. Social media updates appear regularly and of late the party has advised their manifesto has been updated, and also has asked for potential candidates, to make themselves known, in readiness for the 2026 elections. Additionally the party annual conference and gala dinner will take place at a venue near Newport in South Wales on Saturday 20th September. Tickets for the event are priced at £50 for non-members and £35 for members. For a 3-course dinner with wine, the tickets increase to £85 and £120 respectively. Speakers so far announced include pro-life advocate, Isabel Vaughan-Spruce, the lady who was arrested for praying silently near an abortion centre in Birmingham, Jason Barker, who will speak on Agenda 2030 and Kimberley Isherwood, a member of Public Child Protection, Wales. All of the subject matter is important, but the line-up lacks a true Nationalist agenda.

Homeland Party

As reported on the page 4 "In The News" item, the Homeland Party were instrumental in the recent anti-migrant demonstrations which took place outside of the Bell Hotel in Epping. Callum Barker, dubbed the "Lion of Epping" on social media, and Adam Clegg, are both residents of Epping as well as Homeland members, took prominent roles in the organisation of the protests that took place. The party leadership, as a result of their work on the party Remigration Policy, remain in demand for appearances on various media outlets Europe-wide and have recently spoken at a Europe's biggest Remigration demonstration in Vienna, Austria. The party has had some success in its objective for 'Remigration' to be the buzzword in Nationalism and to some extent within mainstream media outlets. Party momentum has slowed of late but Homeland are still seen as the biggest and most influential Nationalist party and will no doubt bounce back in due course. Recently one of their members has expressed his intention to fight back against the treatment he has received from his employer. John Carr, a former Royal Marine Commando, was punished by the Ministry of Defence for opposing the use of DEI in the service - being smeared by the media and treated as a terrorist by the government, and then fired for doing the right thing, in standing up for his principles despite the sacrifice made and is an example to us all! Finally, the party conference will take place on Saturday 27th September. It is likely to take place at a venue in the Midlands and speakers have yet to be announced although the party, despite its short life, have so far managed to procure top level Nationalist speakers at the events it has held so far.

Which Nationalist Party? (3 of 4)

National Front

As per our previous reports, very little seems to be happening within the party. Sadly, it may be that, unless fortunes change for the party, it will be the next to face the chop from this regular feature. (Editor – I first joined the party back in 1993 and have been a member on and off over the years. This together with the party history, as evidenced in the extracts we publish from old Spearhead magazine, means it will be a very sad day when we have to consign the NF to the archive – however, we must recognise that their current impact on the Nationalist scene is virtually nil).

National Housing Party UK

The date for the NHPUK conference has been announced as Saturday 23rd August. The event will take place at the Veterans PTSD Camp near Bath and will be an un-ticketed event, although donations will be invited from attendees. Speakers will include NHPUK members John Lawrence (Party Leader), Pat McGinnis (Treasure and Press Officer) and Stephanie Parker, along with "...other prominent speakers such as James Crane and Lee Bishop, as well as surprise guest speakers and also Jo Dryson who runs the camp".

National Rebirth Party

The NRP have announced that their national meeting and conference will take place on the afternoon of Saturday 6th September in West Yorkshire and is open to non-members as well as members. Ticket prices are £15 and £10 respectively. No further details are yet available. The party have also advised that the monthly party magazine, 'Rise Britannia', will in future be published bi-monthly instead of monthly, with an increase to 32 pages and cost to £5. Party leader Alek Yerbury has again posted apologies on Telegram, for "... being so quiet this week..." due to "... a conference to organise, magazines to help put together and full-time employment to manage". Perhaps he is finding the earlier positive momentum of the party difficult to maintain. Unfortunately in Nationalist politics life does often catch up with people and perhaps if Yerbury delegated more and ceased his criticism of other Nationalists, he may find more time available to him to run his own party. It is hoped this is just a blip and the party continues to fulfil the potential it promised.

Patriotic Alternative

PA recently held its annual family camp from Friday 4th to Sunday 6th July in the north of England. Ticket prices were £30 per adult and the camp was reported as a big success, with around 200 attendees, who were able to take part in two hikes, one for families and one for adults, a massive barbeque and be entertained with live music. The party conference will take place on Saturday 4th October at a central location and include an "excellent line-up of speakers from UK and abroad" as well as, party leader Mark Collett, deputy leader Laura Towler and also David Clews from the Unity News Network. Tickets will be £55 and £80 if an after conference meal is required. With the increase in protests and demonstrations at migrant hotels, PA have announced their return to these with a demonstration in Newark, on Saturday 9th August, calling for the closure of Beckingham migrant camp, this being the constituency of Robert Jenrick MP, who championed Afghan migration to the UK.

Reclaim Party

It is difficult to assess how well Reclaim are performing. With no web-site update and all other social media postings simply being a reposting of posts by others that the party feel are newsworthy, it increasingly seems Reclaim is just a vehicle to keep party leader Laurence Fox in the limelight now that he no is longer in demand as an actor, effectively having been cancelled due to his political views. Recent postings by Fox include several relating to his recent marriage to his long-term girlfriend and also of him cosying up to Tommy Robinson. Fox is also in court again challenging a libel ruling against him, as a result of posting on X referring to two people as paedophiles. Fox does have a tendency to get himself embroiled in legal issues for the things he posts (more so than Tommy Robinson!), which although probably not unreasonable, unfortunately fall foul of our draconian thought crime laws.

Reform UK

The momentum for Reform continues with seemingly everyone in British mainstream politics attacking the party as well as our old "friend" Hope Not Hate publishing regular disparaging emails hoping to cause upset, but presumably having the opposite effect as the party is still riding high in opinion polls some of which suggest a 30% approval rating, this higher than any other party and equating to a majority in Parliament of around 70 seats! The party continues to make headlines, often for the issues arising within its own ranks (contd. over).

In early June, Dr David Bull was appointed as party chairman after the resignation of Zia Yusuf, who describes himself as a "British Muslim patriot". In his resignation statement Yusuf said "(I) no longer believe working to get a Reform government elected is a good use of my time". It seems there was more to this than meets the eye and Rupert Lowe, ex-Reform MP, asked how a man, with no political experience, be given such vast power within Reform and continued that Yusuf is a deeply unpleasant individual who at every stage was protected by Farage. True Nationalists will be glad to see the back of Yusuf. However, Dr Bull has said "Immigration is the lifeblood of this country. It always has been". It remains to be seen how the rank and file membership of Reform react to all of this, even if they see the full extent of what is happening. Another person who served as a co-deputy leader of Reform, Ben Habib has, as seen above, formed a new party Advance UK. The latest party conference has been announced as the "biggest and most important event" and will take place on Friday 5th and Saturday 6th September at the Birmingham National Exhibition Centre. Tickets can be obtained online with prices varying depending on which of the 9 types of ticket is required! Further details are unavailable at the time of writing. Party membership stands at around 230,000 and has some way to go to reach that of the Labour Party at 309,000, and Reform are trying hard to organise throughout the country sending out regular emails regarding the formation of branches and committees. On top of this they have been very successful in obtaining more councillors in a number of by-elections throughout the country and this bodes very well for the elections due next May.

Restore Britain

Rupert Lowe ex-Reform MP has announced the launch of his new party, saying it is a movement for those who believe that we need to fundamentally change the way Britain is governed, although he continues by saying that Restore Britain is not a political party but a movement that has the potential to transform Britain. Membership costs £20 and a wide range of policies are to be found on their website www.restorebritain.org.uk. It is uncertain what impact this movement will have, but Lowe is a very popular and outspoken MP. Potentially Restore Britain could weaken the hold that Reform currently has, as will Advance UK, mentioned earlier.

UKIP

At the latest elections UKIP chairman Ben Walker probably had the most embarrassing and humiliating result in UKIP history, polling a total of 5 votes or 0.3% of votes cast. However, as suggested in our last edition the appointment of Nick Tenconi as party leader may have been a positive move for the party. Tenconi continues his tour around major cities in Britain and appears at other high profile anti-immigration events and obtaining good publicity via social media, albeit largely from his own posts. However, he is one of the handful of party leaders who deems it appropriate to criticise other Nationalist leaders, at a time when, more than ever, Nationalist unity is required to further our cause. In one of his posts on X Tenconi said "Neo-Nazi groups White Vanguard and Homeland were distributing flyers at the Epping protest on Sunday. It's clear that these nutters want to hijack people's legitimate anger and attempt to radicalise them. Be they MI5 plants or actually insane – make them feel unwelcome". When, so called patriots make this kind of statement, without seemingly taking on board that in the case of Homeland, where those present in Epping were local people with "legitimate anger" and that the flyers he refers to could not, by any stretch of the imagination, be classed as radical, then there is good cause to wonder what Tenconi's motivation is. It is interesting that 41-year-old Tenconi, who only joined UKIP in 2024 and is now leader, was previously unheard of within the Nationalist movement and so it begs the question as to how he has suddenly become such an outspoken and provocative personality at demonstrations across the country. Where was he prior to 2024? Here at 'Britain, My Nation' we will be closely monitoring his and UKIP's future activity.

White Vanguard

White Vanguard are another recent newcomer on the Nationalist scene, but little seems to be known about this group. They do have a presence on X, with reference to the 14 words appearing in their posts together with references the NBO (New British Order), an organisation about which even less is known other than it bears a resemblance to the New British Union, an organisation, which due to lack of activity, is no longer covered in this regular feature. More investigation into both organisations will be made and detailed in the next edition.

The Best of Spearhead Magazine – Oct 1978 (1)

We continue our regular feature, in which we reprint extracts from Spearhead magazine. In this edition of Britain, My Nation, we have selected issue number 122 from October 1978. Spearhead magazine, in our opinion, the best Nationalist publication produced for our movement, was at this time, edited by Richard Verrall, with Martin Webster as contributing editor with John Tyndall as publisher.

Despite this issue being almost 50 years old, there is much we can relate to today in our battle to regain our nation from those who do not belong here. There is much to compare with then and now, even though the enemies we face today are far greater and more vindictive than those faced back in 1978. Reading Spearhead it is very apparent that the hurdles to our struggle were essentially the same then as they are today, but those hurdles are now a great deal higher than they were. Our enemies continue in their attempts to remove our right to a political platform and our right to enjoy the freedom of speech that our country once took for granted. Nationalists should always remember that if we were not seen as such a threat to the cosy existence of those who seek to destroy us then we would not encounter such hostility from them. Consequently we must be doing the right thing for our nation and our people and we must continue to rise above and laugh at our enemies.

The need for all true Nationalists to set aside differences has never been greater, so let us stand together and fight back against the wrongs being carried out. We CAN and we MUST work together to save our race and nation.

After a long battle, bigoted pseudo-Marxists in the Anglican Church have finally sacked NF stalwart Captain Kenneth McKilliam as a lay Reader in the Church of England. Capt. McKilliam, NF Prospective Parliamentary Candidate for Ashford, has been a Lay Reader for thirty years, and has helped administer Holy Communion at Boughton Lees Church, Kent. But his licence to read was not renewed after the left-wing Bishop of Maidstone, the Rt. Reverend Richard Third, complained at a Level of Bishops meeting about comments on race made by Capt. McKilliam.

The matter came to a head after Capt. McKilliam had successfully fought off a campaign by local Liberals (sic) to sack him as Secretary of the East Charing Deanery Church Synod. After Synod members had decided that he should remain Secretary, he sent a letter to the Vicar of Ashford and Rural Dean of East Charing in which he set out to reconcile his religious and political beliefs, and in particular to support his opposition to multi-racialism with reference to Biblical passages condemning racial mixing. The letter was forwarded to the Bishop of Maidstone.

Answering charges of 'race hatred', Capt. McKilliam told the Kentish Express newspaper: "I do not hate anything that God has made. But to enforce racial mixing is, to me, a total sin. The clergy do not know how to interpret the Bible. They are muddled."

Capt. McKilliam told Spearhead that his sacking had caused widespread sympathy among local Christians, "who are disgusted by this treatment and by the bongo drums at Canterbury Cathedral heralding the beginning of the Lambeth Conference.

"These perfidious prelates are making themselves and the Church a laughing-stock, and many of the clergy are terrified to speak

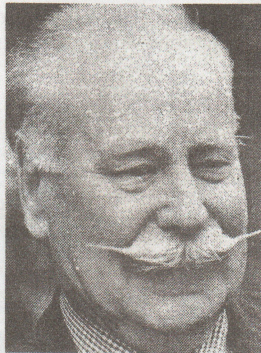

AWARD FOR N.F. ORGANISER

shire for his part in helping to catch a criminal. At the ceremony in St. Albans court house, Judge Marcus Anwyl-Davies praised Mr. Wotherspoon for his detective-work in Stevenage town centre's multi-storey car park, where he spotted a car thief. Recognising the man again later in the vicinity, Mr. Wotherspoon had called the police who arrested the thief.

This story, incidentally, is an interesting reflection of media coverage of the NF. The National Front is controversial. That is what makes it newsworthy – fair enough. But isn't it interesting that when National Front newsworthiness reflects a high credit on the party and its membership, it is newsworthy no longer. This story just about got into the local Post-Echo newspaper. Had it been a Conservative or a Liberal, or Peter Hain, or some other beloved leftist, we all know it would have stood every chance of appearing on those pages of the national dailies usually devoted to elephants and mice, little girls and puppies, or the latest startle leaving Heathrow Airport! After all, praise from the High Sheriff hardly accords with the boot-boy image, does it?

CAPT. MCKILLIAM

out since their livings are becoming more and more at the mercy of these left-wing central commissars. At one time the parish priests had their glebe and gained their stipend from the parish; they could cock a snoot at the bishops if they did not value preferment. Now their glebes have been taken away from them and their salaries are paid by the diocesan finance committees. This means they have to toe the line of the left-wing bishops."

ANNUAL NATIONAL FRONT

REMEMBRANCE DAY MARCH

ASSEMBLE 2 pm at BRESSENDEN PLACE, S.W.1 near the front of VICTORIA STATION

MARCH OFF at 2.30 pm

Don't miss this greatest event in the NF calendar, attended by thousands of members in family groups, ex-servicemen and other supporters. Join in this peaceful, non-political march to and non-denominational Christian service at the Cenotaph in Whitehall to remember those who died for Britain in two World Wars. This is the march that gives the lie to the so-called 'Anti Nazi League'!

A short march away from the Cenotaph will be followed by a rally.

3,000 MARCH AGAINST COMMUNISM

3,000 National Front members and supporters led by a forest of Union Jacks marched against Communism on Sunday, 24th September. Assembling at London's Charing Cross Embankment, the NF marchers made their way through the West End to a rally in Hackney, addressed by NF Chairman John Tyndall. Enthusiastic cheers erupted from the seemingly endless column as members marched down Great Eastern Street and past Excalibur House. With the theme "Defend Freedom – Fight Communism", it was the best attended of recent marches with the exception of Remembrance Day. Earlier a rabble of drum-playing Blacks, 'Anti Nazi League' hooligans and assorted red riff-raff had marched to Brockwell Park, Brixton, scene of vicious rioting against the police some year ago, for a "Carnival".

Elections to the Directorate

The under-mentioned officers of the party were elected to the 10 vacant places on the NF National Directorate in the elections for 1978/79. The votes cast for each candidate, in descending order of votes, was as follows:-

1st. Mr. Richard Verrall	1570 votes
2nd. Mr. Anthony Reed-Herbert	1443 votes
3rd. Mr. John Roberts	1360 votes
4th. Mr. Jeremy Wotherspoon	1188 votes
5th. Mr. George Wright	1043 votes
6th. Mr. Blaise Wyndham	971 votes
7th. Mr. Peter Williams	949 votes
8th. Mr. William Fitt	921 votes
9th. Mr. Philip Gegan	899 votes
10th. Mr. Michael Salt	855 votes

Unsuccessful candidates in the elections (in alphabetical order) were: Mr. Ray Dowler, Mr. Steven Fenn, Mr. Desmond Fenwick, Mr. John Fishwick, Mr. Albert Hough, Mr. Kenneth McKilliam, Mr. Charles Parker, Mr. David Smith.

sung as originally written, though perhaps with new words for the NF written as the verse of the latter.

As has been said, there must be many good songs that have been left out: old songs with march tempo from the Victorian and Edwardian ages; old Scottish, Welsh and Irish Loyalist marching songs. Some of the tunes that Welsh rugby crowds sing sound splendid. Would some of our Welsh supporters like to send them in to us?

If everyone keen on providing the NF with a collection of good marching songs collaborates in this project, in no time we can bring out a songbook and popularise the tunes and lyrics among NF members, so that they can be sung at party occasions.

And let us not under-estimate the emotive impact of a good rousing marching song – it is immense.

Marching songs for NF

For some considerable time supporters of the National Front have been urging that the movement should have a marching song – or, preferably, a number of such songs.

Spearhead has always been in favour of this idea. However, if the party is to have such a song (or songs) it is most important that they are the right sort of songs and that they are good ones.

One or two people have in the past submitted a marching song for the NF. These have been turned down by the Directorate as unsuitable for various reasons – tunes which lacked a rousing, revolutionary ring, or words which our members would feel uncomfortable singing, to say the least! Anyone sitting down and composing or selecting words and music for an NF marching song must give careful consideration to the product needed. The words must not be too 'corny' for our members to want to sing them.

So far as the melody is concerned, we do not think it a good idea that an NF song should be 'borrowed' from abroad. In fact it is preferable that most, if not all, of the tunes are of British origin.

There are some old British songs composed originally as marching songs which could be suitable for use with new words written for the NF. There are some other songs not necessarily composed as marches but which have a tempo that can be adapted for march purposes, again with new words written. There are one or two songs that could be sung in the original tune and words.

Such songs would suffice to provide us with a song album – with the addition of any new songs that our supporters may provide from their own pens which are of the desired quality.

Spearhead wishes to help the NF acquire a marching song repertoire, and to this end is inviting all supporters to send in any songs of which they know from traditional British songbooks – or songs they have written themselves.

To help, we are suggesting a number of old tunes to which new words might be written for NF purposes. If any supporters would like to try their hand at writing such new words, they should send them in to us.

Songs that have traditionally been used for marching purposes include: Tipperary; Goodbye, Dolly Gray; Pack up your troubles; Scotland the brave; We're no awa to bide awa; Pentland Hills; Men of Harlech; God bless the Prince of Wales; Three cheers for the red, white and blue; Hearts of Oak; The sash my Father wore and The Lincolnshire poacher. There are no doubt many more but these are some that easily come to mind. Would someone like to adapt some of these tunes to new words for the NF?

Other songs not always thought of as marches but the tunes of which could be used for marching purposes include: Goodbye, my bluebell; The farmer's boy; Keep right on to the end of the road; Keep the home fires burning; Will ye no come back again and Blaydon races. These tunes could equally well be adapted for use by the NF as marches with the appropriate new words.

Such well established songs as Land of hope and glory and Rule Britannia could be

Freedom of Information Act 2000

The Freedom of Information Act 2000 (the FOIA) was intended to create transparency in the public sector and has proved most useful to Nationalists over the years to substantiate claims made by our policy-makers and also for propaganda purposes. This was taken advantage of by the Britain, My Nation editor along with the late Tom Linden, back in British National Party days when they worked together, defining the questions to be asked, of whom, the subsequent managing of the responses and how then to utilise the information to our benefit.

Over the years this Act has enabled enquirers to obtain a lot of useful information that would not normally be seen by the public and has allowed Nationalists to substantiate claims we might make about the impact of, for example, immigration and actions that public bodies take which are contradictory to actions required to maintain a Britain for the British. In this article we look at more recent FOI requests.

A few years ago it became apparent that our police forces were less decent and honest than we believed them to be in the past. Whether that is a valid perception or not is difficult to prove, as now we are blessed (Ed. Really?) with the internet and the availability of more information to us than ever before, it may simply be the case that prior to these times the information was just not as readily available and individuals and organisations now being subject to closer scrutiny than ever before. One FOI request we made asked for "The number of serving officers, for each of the last 10 years (i.e. 2011-2020), who have been convicted of crimes and the ethnicity of the perpetrators", resulting in the following response:-

Year	Number
2019/20	68
2018/19	80
2017/18	81
2016/17	108
2015/16	100

The number of serving officers convicted of criminal offences is published annually in the Police Workforce Statistics, which is available to view online here: <https://www.gov.uk/government/collections/police-workforce-england-and-wales>. This data is only held since 2015/16. The Home Office did save me the effort and provided this table (left). They continued by saying that "The Home Office does not hold information on either the details of each criminal offence or the ethnicity of the officer". This last comment indicating that either they really do not hold the information or they do not wish to hold it for fear of what it might show.

With the increasing awareness of the fact that illegal immigrants are being housed throughout the country (see page 8) it was though appropriate to submit the following FOI request to Wiltshire Council. In retrospect the request should have asked about illegal immigrants rather than "refugees", however this is what was asked:-

1. The number of "refugees" currently housed temporarily in Wiltshire?
2. What plans are there to rehouse these "refugees" on a permanent basis? Refugee referring to any person who has been forced to flee conflict or persecution

The fact the wrong question was asked allows the council off the hook somewhat but their response also reflects the trend towards either avoiding the question or their ability to provide any helpful response. This is their reply:-

"I can confirm that the council holds some of the information you requested which is as follows. We have not provided some of the requested information because we don't hold it.

1. The number of "refugees" currently housed temporarily in Wiltshire? - As a Council we have 3 households currently in temporary accommodation under our homeless duties.
2. What plans are there to rehouse these "refugees" on a permanent basis? - Information not held. The rehousing of refugees sits with Central Government, not with the Local Authority".

The reader probably struggles with this response as much as we did!

Finally in this edition we must refer to a recent report in the Daily Mail as posted on X by Matt Goodwin (@GoodwinMJ) referring to an FOI request made of the UK government. It read "In the last year alone, 6,537 asylum-seekers used their UK government-issue cash cards, backed by British taxpayers, to gamble at casinos and arcades". Yes, you read that correctly! More of the same to come in our next edition.

A Time In History

This regular feature lists some of the events in British history which took place on dates during the months covered by this publication.

August

2nd 1990 – Iraqi forces invade Kuwait.

6th 1945 – The atomic bomb is used for the first time; four square miles of Hiroshima are laid waste and over 50,000 civilians are killed.

9th 1757 – Thomas Telford, engineer of roads, canals and bridges is born at Westerkirk.

10th 1675 – The Royal Observatory at Greenwich is founded.

22nd 1642 – Charles I raises his standard at Nottingham opening the military phase of the Great Rebellion; the outbreak of the English Civil War.

27th 1883 – The eruption of Krakatoa between Sumatra and Java causes spectacular red sunsets in Britain for several weeks.

31st 1422 – Henry V dies at Vincennes of dysentery and is succeeded by his 9-month-old son Henry VI. John, Duke of Bedford, acts as Protector of England and Regent in France during the King's minority.

31st 1958 – There is fighting in Notting Hill between white and black youths.

September

3rd 1658 – Cromwell dies of pneumonia in Whitehall. He is succeeded as Protector by his son Richard. Cromwell is buried in Westminster Abbey, his effigy wearing a crown and holding an orb and sceptre.

11th 1297 – Battle of Stirling Bridge; Scots troops under William Wallace defeat the English.

11th 1777 – Battle of Brandywine Creek; British troops under General Howe defeat George Washington, but fail to follow up this major success.

18th 1979 – Corporal punishment is abolished in all Inner London schools.

19th 1851 – William Lever, soap-maker and philanthropist, later Viscount Leverhulme, is born at Bolton.

20th 1258 – Consecration of the newly-completed Salisbury Cathedral.

21st 1965 – British Petroleum discovers oil in the North Sea.

29th 1399 – Richard II becomes the second British monarch to abdicate.

Dear Britain, My Nation

Your efforts in seeking unity amongst Nationalists is to be commended. For far too many years now our movement has been fragmented and largely ineffectual as a result. I have been an armchair Nationalist for more years than I care to remember and even though I am now virtually housebound the urge I have to get involved is greater than ever as it finally seems as if we are on the verge of big changes. That is why I urge fellow readers to put their petty differences behind them and join one of the bigger racial Nationalist parties, or failing that, work with them to force home our increasingly popular agenda. I do not want to go to my grave in the knowledge that we are in the same position as we were 50 years ago. Things must change, as 50 years hence it will be too late and Great Britain will no longer be Great nor Britain. With this letter I send you what I can afford from this month's pension. Keep up the good work – we will get there!

BP – Swindon

Editor's response – Thank you for the letter and generous donation. You, Sir, are certainly playing your part!

Dear Editor

I very much enjoy your magazine as it sits well amongst the several Nationalist magazines to which I subscribe and is a very easy read. As a West Country chap, like yourself, I particularly enjoy your references to relevant goings-on in our rural backwater. It does show that, even though our urban centres have massive problems, us country folk are still experiencing the impact of mass and unwanted immigration. Hopefully other readers will find these references interesting and will help open their eyes to how the problems, from which we suffer, exist throughout our land and the need for us to fight against these is truly a national one, a national emergency no less! Every one of us has a role to play in this fight, even if it simply involves engaging others in conversation regarding the problems we face and the reasons for those problems. It is time we all upped our game and solved our problems together by peaceful means as the longer it goes on the more likely that we will see the breakdown of society and an increase in civil unrest. The time for action is now!

Jack West - Cirencester

Dear Britain, My Nation

Thank you for reproducing excerpts from Spearhead. Having been a Nationalist for over 50 years it is highly likely that I read those articles the first time around. As well as bringing back great memories, particularly regarding the strength of the National Front at the time, it produces very strong motivation to ensure our movement continues our fight for what we believe in. I agree with your aim in attempting to unify the many groups that currently exist, but sadly more seem to be forming all the time making matters worse. The National Front formed, back in the day, as a result of many groups joining together so it shows unity as possible. If only those involved were prepared to bend that little bit for the greater good then what a future we might have! Party leaders need to get serious and realise that our time is rapidly running out and if we really do not want our country to be run by foreigners and to stop the white British from becoming a minority here, urgent action is required, so I will echo your call, for those who have the power to make this happen, to join forces so the establishment and the electorate can see that we are not many insignificant groups but one very significant one, one that can and will make a difference.
